

Introduction to Awards Presentations:

Good evening. I am Paulette Colemon and we are now ready to begin our Awards Program for this evening.

Our Award Recipients are listed on Page 7 of your Adbook.

I would like to ask Cassandra Brown to join me on stage, and I would like to ask Simone, Bela, and Michael to come up front and have a seat until their award presentations.

Henrietta De Boer Volunteer of the Year Award Presentation

I will now be presenting the Henrietta De Boer volunteer of the year award which honors individuals who have distinguished themselves as a volunteer in dedication and service to CCHCC and its mission. Tonight, we are pleased to honor Cassandra Brown.

Cassandra is dedicated to the Health Care Consumers and has been for over five years. She came in with a friend to do some volunteer work because she was bored. Volunteering at CCHCC, she found her passion for helping others.

Cassandra is kind and understanding, and that is the key when you manage the Health Care Consumers reception area. Many people from all walks of life show up at our door looking for help or some one to listen to their problems and Cassandra is the smiling face that welcome them in and finds out just what they need and who should be helping them.

Cassandra is currently a student at Parkland College and is graduating in the spring and we are very proud of her. Cassandra has learned to be an advocate here at CCHCC and has chosen to have a career as a social worker so she will continue to be in tune with the CCHCC mission which is to make concrete improvement in peoples lives.

From the Mailings, to the filing, and even turn out calls, Cassandra is ready to help at any time.

Her famous words are “give it to me and I will get it done.” So it is with honor and true gratefulness I present you my friend Cassandra Brown with the Henrietta De Boer Volunteer of the Year Award.
